

TICK TOCK®

TEA FOR ANYTIME

BRITAIN'S FAVOURITE
ROOIBOS
TEA

At Tick Tock, we have been growing and producing the finest grade rooibos (redbush) tea ever since Grandfather Benjamin Ginsberg created the brew in 1903. A tea pioneer, he was the first to use traditional tea making techniques to cure the wild rooibos plant and bring out the best of its natural flavours.

Tick Tock has proudly become Britain's favourite rooibos tea, and our iconic pack can be found in kitchen cupboards across the country.

We never use artificial additives, GM crops, or chlorine bleached teabags. We believe that it is our shared responsibility to ensure the sustainability of the local ecosystem and community, so we only buy direct from farmers, always trade fairly, and encourage environmentally sound agricultural practices.

Our unique rooibos expertise allows us to maintain the high levels of quality for which Tick Tock has become known.

Grown only in South Africa's pristine Cedarberg Mountains, rooibos has long been valued for its natural goodness and is naturally caffeine free. It's also naturally low in tannin so there's no bitter taste (or lingering residue in your mug). Delicious with or without milk, it can be enjoyed by the whole family at any time of the day, even at bedtime.
